

Evangelia Papaloi received a PhD at Education Sciences and Social Organisational Psychology from University Toulouse II (France). Her research interests lie in the area of educational leadership, leadership ethics, organisational behaviour, organisational culture, stereotypes, organisational well-being, etc. She works as an Adjunct Lecturer at post-graduate courses at the Hellenic Open University and other Universities whereas, for many years, she has taught at pre-graduate courses at Greek Universities. She is a research associate and a trainer at EKDD and other Public Bodies and Organisations. In this framework, she has conducted researches regarding social values, migration, social inclusion, educational leadership, etc. She was a member at an Horizontal Group during the Hellenic Presidency in the Council of the European Union (1st semester 2014) and has served as an expert and an evaluator of European Programmes at the State Scholarships Foundation (IKY). She has participated at European Research Programmes as a researcher and a trainer and, has served as a reviewer at the Academy of Management Conference in Organizational Behavior and in Organisational Decision & Change Departments. She has published 46 papers in international Scientific Journals and Conference Proceedings, has written one book, has edited and/or participated at least at 10 chapters in collective tomes both in Greece and abroad (Cambridge Scholars, Routledge, Emerald, Bloomsbury Publishing, Gutenberg, Επίκεντρο, etc.) while, she has written educational material for Hellenic Open University and other Universities.