

A.L. Smirnaios is Professor in the Department of Primary Education (DPE) of the University of Thessaly. He teaches the courses Modern Greek History, History of Modern Greek Education and Didactics of History, in the undergraduate program of the Department. In his teaching and research, he uses tools provided by the Philosophy of History and the Philosophy of Education. He also teaches in the two Masters' Programs of the Department: Didactics of History in the Program "Learning Design and Education Material's development in Modern Learning Environments" and issues related to educational innovation in the Program "Educational Sciences: Educational Administration and Management". He is the director of the Laboratory for Educational and Local History of DPE. He has published ten books, was coeditor in two volumes and has participated or been the main researcher in many history research initiatives. Many of his articles have been published in Greece and abroad.